

TROOPS GUARD PARIS STREETS

Fifty Thousand Soldiers Held In Readiness To Prevent Any Trouble Due To The Strike.

RADICAL STEPS HAVE BEEN TAKEN

General Commanding Paris Will See That There Is No
Disorder.—Postal Offices Closely Guarded By Squads Of Armed Men.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris, France, May 12.—Paris in a city guarded by troops as though in a state of siege or civil war. The days of Communism or the hundred-day strike by the Germans is recalled by the appearance of troops in the city proper.

Troops on Guard

At the Central Post and Telegraph stations soldiers are guarding every approach to prevent the strikers from molesting the instruments or the faithful employees who remain at their posts.

In Squads

At every branch office of the entire system squads of infantrymen are stationed to protect both property and men and ready for instant service should any emergency arise through interference of strikers.

Streets Patrolled

The streets are also patrolled by mounted Republican guards who prevent any gathering of multitudes in different sections of the city and to keep any processions that may be formed moving.

Dalstein Ready

General Dalstein, Military Governor of Paris, is ready for any emergency and has fifty thousand picked troops inside the city in reserve to quell disturbances if the guards on duty can not do it.

Trouble Feared

The preparations already made will be supplemented by extra precautions on the part of all departments of the government to prevent the trouble and riots which are hourly expected.

Only Seven Hundred.

According to the official figures of the government this afternoon the actual number of strikers are said to number but seven hundred in all and these are said to be chiefly railroad clerks.

Claim More.

At the strike headquarters, however, the total number of men who have come out in protest to the action of the chamber of deputies is said to be far in excess of the government figures.

BREWERS WANT "PURE BEER" LAW KILLED

Liquor Men Object to Measure Providing for Labeling of Ingredients in Beer.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., May 12.—The Wisconsin brewers have given orders to their lobbyists here to kill by all means the "Pure Beer" bill requiring the labeling of all ingredients or adulterants in beer. The measure was advanced in the assembly yesterday but the brewers declare such a law would do untold damage to their business. The bill to raise the capital appropriation and to remove the limitation of cost and empower the building commission to buy paintings, is meeting bitter opposition as unifying extravagance and graft and will probably be killed.

ILLINOIS TO CHANGE COUNTY OPTION LAW

Lower House Refuses to Strike Out Clause in New Measure Which Nullifies Present Law.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Springfield, Ill., May 12.—The House today refused to strike out the exacting clause of the bill which in effect nullifies the present local option law. The bill separates the city and incorporated towns or villages, from the township, on a vote for or against the saloon.

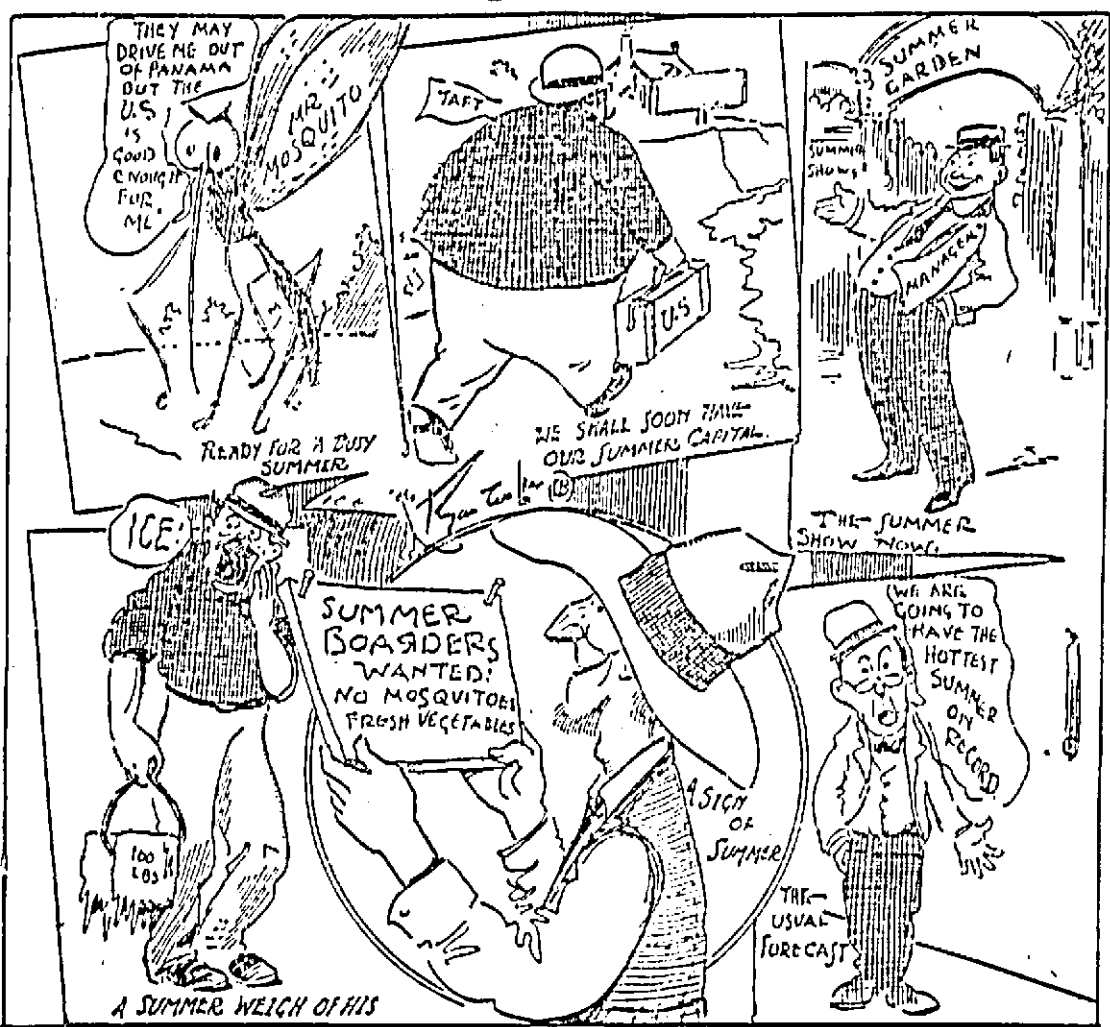

The eighty-fifth joint ballot for United States senator resulted: Hopkins 78, Foss 18, Shortell 22, Stricker 47, Eskridge 15, Phelps 15, and a scattering of 19. Three democratic representatives today voted for Shortell, republican.

NEW LIBRARY BUILDING AT JOHN HOPKINS SCHOOL

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Baltimore, Md., May 12.—Interesting exercises today attended the formal dedication of the fine medical and surgical library building connected with the Johns Hopkins Hospital. Prominent among the participants in the program were Dr. S. Weir Mitchell of Philadelphia and Dr. William Osler, Regius professor of medicine at Oxford University.

Anti-Tuberculosis Delegates Gather Today—Hotel Men Entertained in Atlanta.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., May 12.—Much interest and importance attaches to the fifth annual meeting of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, which assembled at the New Willard hotel today for a three days' session. Nearly all parts of the country are represented in the attendance, which embraces many prominent medical men, educators, sociologists and others.

Reports showing gratifying progress during the past twelve months will be presented to the convention. Since the last annual meeting a large amount of work has been accomplished by the organization. One of the events of the year which was planned and carried out by the association was the successful meeting of the international anti-tuberculosis congress in this city.

Another feature of the year's work of the association has been its traveling exhibits. Three of these exhibits are now conducted by the association and during the past year they were displayed in a large number of cities. As a direct result of these efforts, the state legislatures of Kansas, Tennessee and Nebraska have passed laws and made appropriations to carry on the campaign against consumption.

Atlanta Entertains Hotel Men. Atlanta, Ga., May 12.—Atlanta is entertaining for two days about 1,000 of the leading hotel men of the United States. The visiting hotelmen are members of the Hotel Men's Benefit association and they came to Atlanta from Chattanooga, where a convention of the association was held during the early part of this week.

The hotels of Atlanta have provided royal entertainment for the visitors. The program includes receptions, luncheons, banquets, theatrical parties and automobile rides about the city. After leaving Atlanta the hotel men will visit Mobile and one or two other cities of the south before departing for home.

UNIVERSITY HAS MANY TROUBLES

MANY BILLS THAT DIRECTLY AFFECT ITS FUTURE BEING CONSIDERED.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., May 12.—The present legislature has displayed a disposition of exceeding freedom from enthusiasm with respect to the many bills contemplating additional appropriations for the state university. Near friends of the university have come to look upon this session as one of great hostility to the university, and entertain grave fears lest the results be damaging to the institution.

Bills which in an ordinary session would have practically no chance of getting farther than the repository of a committee have this year not only received serious consideration but are well advanced toward enactment into law.

One such bill was the Hambrecht measure, closing the door against any future thought of separate classes for the men and women students. Another such bill is the Tvesen measure, providing that the faculty must give a trial to a student before expulsion may be made. Another is the Wehrwein bill to open the university to all graduates of Wisconsin high schools passing the inspection of the state superintendent of public instruction.

This bill has been advanced by the assembly by overwhelming vote and will have strong support in the senate. Still another such proposal, of anti-university flavor, is a bill to take away from the university its permanent state appropriation and require each legislature to make available funds for the support of the university for the coming two years.

Some of these bills the university has brought upon itself. The Wehrwein bill is the proposal of State Superintendent C. P. Cary, according to the frank admission of Assemblyman Wehrwein. In the recent spring campaign Mr. Cary's reelection was opposed by leading university authorities, among them Regent James P. Trotter of Milwaukee and George F. Merrill of Ashland, who wrote letters to university alumni favoring the defeat of Mr. Cary.

Naturally Mr. Cary seems inclined to retaliate, and his argument that the inspection of high schools for the university entrance accredited list is causing the high schools to be made into feeder schools for the university instead of finishing schools for the great majority of high school students who never go to college, is finding favor.

The fact is that less than one high school graduate out of ten goes to a college or university, and Mr. Cary declares the high school should therefore act as a finishing school for the elite who go from the high school out into the world, rather than as a preparatory school for the one who goes to college.

The university view the measure with great alarm, declaring that it will lower the high standard of the university among the higher educational institutions of the world, and will make the state superintendent superior in authority to the president of the university.

The financial bill is also a result of university overstepping. The permanent income law was the result of a plan by the university for a permanent fund so as to relieve the university authorities of the unpleasant and non-educative task of lobbying at each session for university appropriations.

put it, and demanded large "special" appropriations. Now the serious proposal is for each legislature to vote on what money it sees fit for the support of the university in the following two years, and leave the subsequent support of the institution to subsequent legislatures.

Will there may be ample room for the university administration to be taught lessons of economy and direct dealing with the legislature, people who have the welfare of the state's chief educational institution at heart profess extreme fear that the results of the present situation may be disastrous to the position which the University of Wisconsin holds in the educational world.

TWO NEW HOLIDAYS TO BE DESIGNATED

Lincoln's Birthday and the September Primary Day Included in New Bill in Assembly.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., May 12.—Two legal holidays, the anniversary of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln and the day on which the September primary is held, will be added to the list of days designated for observance in Wisconsin if the senate approves action by the assembly on the Kubista amendment to the Keep bill. Assemblyman Keep introduced a bill providing that in addition to other present holidays, the anniversaries of the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln should be observed in alternate years. His idea was that as these anniversaries both fall in the month of February it would be best to have the schools observe them by appropriate exercises in alternate years, rather than to suggest two such patriotic holidays each year in the same month. Assemblyman Kubista, however, offered a substitute making each of these anniversaries a legal holiday and also the day on which the September primary is held. The assembly adopted and advanced this substitute bill, and if the senate is of the opinion, the Wisconsin law designating legal holidays will read as follows:

"The first day of January, the twelfth day of February, the twelfth day of February, the fourth day of July, the twenty-fifth day of December, the thirtieth day of May, the day appointed by the governor as labor day, or by him or the president of the United States as a day of public thanksgiving in each year, the day on which the September primary is held, and the day of holding the general election are legal holidays; provided, that for schools, neither the day of the general election, the twelfth day of February, nor the twenty-second day of February shall be a legal holiday, and on the twelfth day of February and the twenty-second day of February, schools shall hold appropriate special exercises commemorative of such respective day; and whenever either of said days shall fall on Sunday the succeeding Monday shall be the legal holiday to be observed under the provisions of this act."

GEORGIA ROAD WANTS TO INCREASE RATES

Question of Whether Railroad Can Raise Rates Will Be Settled By State Commission.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Atlanta, Ga., May 12.—The question of whether or not the Georgia Railroad should be allowed to increase its passenger rate from 2-1-1 to 2-1-2 cents per mile was argued today before the State Railroad Commission. The commission recently overruled a petition of the company to increase its passenger rate, but upon the application of the company it decided to grant another hearing.

A BIG SLUMP IN SPORT OF KINGS

RACING ON DECLINE IN NEW YORK STATE.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

SPRING RACES ABANDONED

By Two of the Prominent Jockey Clubs—Salaries of Officials and Others Have Decreased.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Metropolitan Racing Dates for 1909.
Belmont Park, May 13 to June 2.
Gravesend, June 3 to June 23.
Sheepshead Bay, June 24 to July 13.
Yonkers, July 14 to July 31.
Saratoga, Aug. 2 to Aug. 28.

New York, May 12.—Under conditions even less promising than those of a year ago, the metropolitan racing season begins at Belmont Park today with the opening of the annual meeting of the Westchester Racing association. If the plans of the Jockey Club are carried out the season will extend over 94 days, closing at Saratoga the last of August. The five meetings and the dates allotted them for the season are as follows: Belmont Park, May 13 to June 2; Gravesend, June 3 to 23; Sheepshead Bay, June 24 to July 13; Yonkers, July 14 to July 31; Saratoga, Aug. 2 to Aug. 28.

Though the season extends over 94 days, there probably will not be racing during more than half that period. The Belmont Park meeting opening today, for instance, has dates covering eighteen days, but only ten of these will be utilized unless the public shows by its attendance that it wants extra days, in which case they will be given.

The meeting opens with the Metropolitan Handicap, one of the foremost classics of the American turf. But instead of being a race with $10,000 added, as heretofore, the added value of the Metropolitan this year is but $3,000. The $20,000 Belmont, the oldest stake in America; the Withers, with $10,000 added; the Ladies, with $5,000 added, and the National Stillion, with $8,000 added, are to be run without any reduction in value.

The outlook for the future of racing in the metropolitan district certainly is discouraging to the track owners, horsemen and others interested in "the sport of kings." Neither will the conditions change. "The biggest race of the year, from a money value point of view, will be the historic Futurity, to be decided at Sheepshead Bay probably in September. The Brooklyn and Suburban handicaps may be run again, if only to perpetuate their names, but the added money will be nothing compared to that of former years.

The slump that the racing has undergone is best evidenced by the fact that the salaries of officials, jockeys, trainers and other employees have been cut in half, while the ordinary running expenses of the tracks will also be greatly reduced.

As far as betting goes, the track owners have instructed the Pinkertons to enforce the law strictly, so that speculators who may take chances by recording wagers will do so on their own responsibility. In accordance with court decisions rendered so far it is legal for individuals to make oral bets. It is also legal to sell advance information, while it is a question whether the display of odds can result in a conviction for a violation of the statute.

Many cases for violation of the Anti-betting law are now pending in the courts. In due time some of these cases may be passed upon, and if there are favorable verdicts the racing situation may be cleared up. The fact that at least half the season has been left unprofitable by the Jockey Club would corroborate the general opinion that if the cases in the courts should be decided so as to permit individual and oral betting and registration of wagers the attendance would be so good as to warrant their being held meetings at both Aqueduct and Jamaica.

WORLD CONFERENCE OF THE ADVENTISTS

Today Opening Day Of International Session—United Brethren Gather In Canton, Ohio.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., May 12.—The world's quadrennial general conference of Seventh Day Adventists assembled today at Takoma Park with the largest attendance by far that has ever gathered for counsel in the history of the denomination. Eight hundred delegates were present at the opening, of whom nearly one-fourth came from foreign countries. Nearly all of the countries of Europe are represented, together with Japan, India, Korea, China, Central and South America, Africa, Australia and Asiatic Russia.

The conference will remain in session three weeks, with the Rev. A. G. Daniel of this city presiding. Reports prepared by officers and committees for presentation to the conference show that the last four-year term has witnessed the greatest growth in the history of the denomination.

United Brethren. Canton, O., May 12.—The twenty-fifth quadrennial session of the United Brethren churches assembled in this city today. Delegates representing a total membership of nearly 300,000 are in attendance. Sessions are to be held daily for over a week, while the evenings will be devoted to sermons and lectures. William J. Bryan, Bishop Bell of Los Angeles and other speakers of note appear on the program.

SKIRTS ON CABS; HELP BURY DEAD

WOMEN TAKE PLACES OF CHICA-GO'S STRIKING HACK
DRIVERS.

WILLING TO MOUNT HEARSE'S

Wives of Two Liverymen on Mourning
Carriages and Others May Be Employed—Horse Show Whip and Club Member Aids.

Chicago, May 12.—To aid their husbands in breaking the strike of cab-men who have quit work because an increase of wages is denied them, the wives of several Chicago liverymen are driving hacks and are willing, if necessary, to hold the reins over the horses
drawing hearses in funeral processions.

Funeral cortege through the city streets were not molested by the strikers.

Mrs. J. W. Adland, 1024 Warren avenue, a horse-show whip, mounted the box of a cab at her husband's livery stable and proceeded to drive to a funeral. When she left the livery at 1642 West Madison street, she was taking the place of a striking driver.

Her husband sat upon the box of the black hearse, which proceeded her out of the livery on its way to the funeral.

Good Driver, She Says.
"Why shouldn't I drive my husband's carriage in this or any other funeral, Mrs. Adland countered in reply to a question as to her livery service as a livery driver. "I am as good a driver as any man in Chicago and much better than most women."

"This strike means nothing to me.
I don't know anything about it. All I know is that my husband's firm is in need of a driver for a funeral and I am going to drive that carriage."

"I see no difference between driving a carriage or hack in a funeral procession and piloting a pair in the show-
ring—by that I mean to refer to hack-driving as a calling for women. The horse never lived that I am afraid of
—and I can handle any horse that ever had a harness on."

Not Special Calling for Men.
"Women nowadays engage in lots
of work that formerly men were supposed to be better fitted for. Hackdriv-ing is no special calling for men. If a woman can handle a team as well as a man why shouldn't she drive a hack?"

Good driving is essential in a cabman
but there is no reason why the person
on the box should not be a woman.
That is, if a woman can handle a team
of horses she certainly can drive a Chicago livery cab. I have read of women engineers and women in all kinds of work. Why not women cab-
drivers?"

With this parting statement Mrs.
Adland climbed upon the box of the cab and gathered up the reins. She was attired in a close-fitting dark brown suit and a small derby hat securely held in place by a wide-meshed black veil. She wore patent leather boots.

Another Woman to Aid.
Mrs. John Sperling, whose husband is a livery stable proprietor in West Pullman, also professed her willingness to aid in the movement of the team owners against the union. She prepared to take her place on the seat of a carriage. She expected to assume a part in several funerals arranged for this afternoon.

"My wife has volunteered to take the place of one of the drivers who struck," said Mr. Sperling. "She can handle a team of horses as well as a man. Many of the wives and daughters of other liverymen who are affected by the strike have shown the same loyal and fearless spirit. If we are unable to get men we shall nevertheless be able to bury the dead with the help of our women folks."

Business Agent W. J. Gibbons, who is in charge of the strike for the labor organization, expressed himself as being both sorry and glad when given
the information that the feminine element was arrayed against him and his men.

Many Belong to Clubs.
"It is true that they are showing a degree of loyalty toward their husbands and fathers," he said, "but they also ought to consider that they are taking the bread out of the mouths
of the wives and daughters of their former employers by their action. Many of these women belong to clubs and other social organizations which work
for the uplift and benefit of their sex."

On the other hand, the labor leader continued, "I think it might be a good thing if the wives and daughters would handle the business of the men all the time. If they did it would not be necessary to take policemen
from their regular work and make them guard funerals."

Strike in Milwaukee Breweries.
Milwaukee, May 12.—The Federated Trades council has called a general strike of the building trades craft in Milwaukee breweries, affecting about 300 men. Nearly all the breweries laid off their carpenters, declaring they had not work enough to keep them employed. The men affected are electricians, millwrights, painters and some carpenters. A refusal to sign a new scale brought about the trouble.

Kidnaping Attempt at Vincennes.
Vincennes, Ind., May 12.—An alleged attempt to kidnap little Willie Hamilton, son of a North Vincennes
contractor, caused great excitement.
To the police the would-be abductor gave his name as J. E. White, from Texas, but would not tell the town
for fear his sisters would learn of his flight. White is 30 years old.

EARLY DAYS ON THE RIVER ARE RECALLED

Levi K. Alden Talks of the Boating
on Rock River Fifty Years

Levi K. Alden, one of the pioneer printers of Janesville, who for many years was connected with the Gazette,
has an interesting story to tell of the early days on the river. His experience and remembrances go back into days when the Rock was a navigable stream. Mr. Alden recalls many incidents that are most interesting.

He says of these early days:
"Now that a deep waterway from Janesville to the Mississippi is being excavated, a brief history of early boating on Rock river seems appropriate."

"In 1851, while some of us boys were swimming in the river at a point where the upper railroad bridge
now stands a huge ship's anchor
fully five feet long, was found buried in the mud. It required four horses to pull the anchor out of the mud.
No one at that time residing in Janesville could account for its being found where it was and it was a matter of conjecture how it came there.
Some Indians who were encamped about a mile up the river claimed that a big "canoe" came up the river
from the big waters some years previous. However that may be the anchor stood up against an old log fence for a year or two and was finally carried off by some farmers who doubtless thought it was a curiosity worth stealing."

"The first steamboat that the writer has any remembrance of was the "Mayflower," a stern wheeler, built in 1852, and for a season or two carried passengers up the Rock river. At the time it was owned by one hundred passengers and it was necessary for the guests to part their hair in the middle to keep from tipping the boat over. Lack of patronage made its career short and its hull now lies in the sand at the foot of Fourth avenue
and in low water can be plainly seen."

"The next venture in the steamboat line was in 1856, when Capt. Foster of Indian Ford, built the "Queen of the West," with the intention of using it to tow wood and other freight from the back woods to Janesville, but he had so much trouble in trying to get above the railroad bridge at Edgerton
that the scheme was abandoned and the boat was used for several seasons as a passenger boat."

"The "Queen" was a side-wheeler and could accommodate five hundred passengers
very comfortably. So persistent was Captain Foster in his attempts to run his boat to Lake Koshongong that the railroad company were obliged to station
a strong guard on the banks with gun and shot and orders to sink the boat if any attempt was made to break through the bridge. After several attempts, a shot across the bow
of the "Queen" convinced the captain that the railroad company were in earnest in protecting the bridge and gave up the attempt. The first session of the "Queen" as a pleasure boat running from Janesville to Muncie's bridge was very successful and numerous pleasure parties took advantage of the excursion, but the captain could not stand prosperity and the next season installed a bar on the boat and it soon fell into bad repute.

"The hull of the "Queen" now lies on the west bank of the river just north of the Crook brewery and is visible in low water. The boiler and engine was appropriated by Anson Stogers and for a time furnished the power for manufacturing beer and also in the old hush (now Crook) brewery."

"When the Yankee soldiers reached Janesville, Texas, in 1865, they were surprised to see a side-wheel ferry
boat plying between Brownsville, Tex.,
and Matamoros, Mexico that was built on the Rock river and made the passage through Janesville down the Mississippi to New Orleans where it was used in the bayous and small streams for transporting cotton to New Orleans. It was then purchased by the Mexican government and put into commission as a ferry boat on the Rio Grande."

"In the early days quite a trade was worked up in boating stone from Strunk and Chapin's quarry in use in the foundations of the many buildings that were rapidly being erected in the young city of Janesville. The most noted of these was the "Peggy,"
owned by Thomas Woolfscroft and did a thriving business until it struck a sunk across the river from Strunk's quarry and sank in about ten feet of water."

"In 1856 Jeremiah Day and "Uncle" Phelps built a large boat and attempted to run it up the river with a huge windmill for power, but the stream
proved too narrow and the venture
was given up and a tread mill substituted. Several profitable trips were made towing saws loaded with stone and gravel, but it soon went to decay and the hull was burned up for firewood."

See Snakes' Death Duel.
Passengers on a west-bound local train over the Pennsylvania witnessed a bitter fight between a copperhead
and a blacksnake when the train

tona (Pa.) correspondent. The reptiles

copperhead sank its fangs into the neck of its opponent.

Do you know Bleached
Flour is the most expensive for your use, because it contains less of the Gluten of the Gluten and takes more yeast and sugar than it would to make the same amount of bread if you used MARVEL unbleached Flour. And besides, the U. S.
Government Food Commissioners have ruled that Bleached Flour is impure and that the manufacture and sale of it will have to be stopped.

Surely you want your bread and pastry to be pure and wholesome. Then why wait—why not order, now, MARVEL FLOUR? It is made only from the highest grade wheat, in the good old fashioned natural way, and contains all the nourishing and health-giving qualities of purest wheat. It costs no more than Bleached Flour and goes a great deal farther. When buying baker's bread remember what Uncle Sam's experts say, insist on its being made of MARVEL
Natural Unbleached Flour.

Marvel Flour Demonstration

at 109 W. Milwaukee St.

Come this afternoon or any other afternoon this week,
at your leisure, between 1:30 and 5 o'clock, or Saturday
evening.

Program for Thursday, May 13.

Demonstration of MARVEL BREAD. Sandwiches served. COOKIE DAY. Cookies that make the children say, "Please, Mama, can I have another?" The kind husband tells stories about. The kind your neighbors always seem to call on the day you serve them at afternoon tea. Be sure and copy Mrs. Hensel's recipe. Tea, Coffee or Cocoa served with all dainties.

Learn of the great variety of attractive, delicious and nutritious articles of food made possible by the use of MAR-VEL Flour, as suggested by our demonstrator, Mrs. Hensel, in her entertaining and instructive talks.

Be convinced, that where delicious cake and pastry, or nutritious, palatable bread is desired and where economy is considered, no other flour is comparable to MARVEL Flour.

INFANT INDUSTRIES

When the Dingley bill was passed the argument used was, that many weak American industries needed protection, and without protection they could never gain a foothold in meeting foreign competition. Under the provisions of this act this class of industries not only thrived, and for a number of years the feeling has prevailed that duties should be reduced in the interest of consumers.

The case referred to by the Wall Street Journal is only one of many similar cases where over-protection has resulted in a burdensome monopoly. Congress has been besieged by this class of men, and the Payne and Aldrich schedules indicate that the voice of the people has been lost in the clamor of special interests. It might be well for the people's representatives to remember that President Taft is to pass final judgment on their work and that he is committed to the people's interests. The Journal says:

"A well-known statesman, speaking about the tariff at a banquet a few nights ago, described some of the various applicants for favors in Washington during the drafting of the Payne tariff bill. He quoted one manufacturer lobbying for his particular product, who said openly that he was getting eighty per cent protection now, and that he hoped to have the duty advanced to one hundred and twenty per cent, when he would guarantee that not a parcel of the article protected would be imported. It is difficult to see how the leaders in the senate at Washington expect to raise revenue by such methods as this, but the speaker referred to vouched for the fact that the commodity in question was protected by the increased duty demanded when the Payne tariff bill emerged from the hands of the ways and means committee.

"Such protection as this is a premium upon greed, and a direct fraud upon the consumer. It does not create a new infant industry; but it takes a rickety infant which might better not have been born, and wastes good food upon it to keep it alive when a great deal more good could be done by smaller expenditure in other directions. Any system of republican government must necessarily do all it can to secure equal opportunity for all citizens, but it certainly cannot afford to favor the least worthy at the expense of the rest.

"It is true that our civilization tends to develop on this line. We are breeding our future citizens in many cases from a physically inferior type, thanks to improved sanitation and a better enforcement of health laws in tenement and slum districts. It must necessarily, even in such conditions, be an accident, even a long time before we can pull future generations of this class up to the physical standard of the healthy rural population.

"There is no reason why we should apply any such method, however humane, to our industrial system. Human life is a sacred thing, but the business of half a dozen manufacturers trying to make an inferior imitation of something which can be much better produced elsewhere is hardly worth encouragement. They are at liberty to expend their own capital on such ill considered enterprise, but they are not entitled to replenish it by dipping into the nation's pocket.

"As a broad rule, it may be stated that with few exceptions industries which have had the advantage of high protection for the twelve years since the passage of the Dingley act of 1897, and now come to congress to ask for additional protection, by that very act raise a doubt as to whether they are worth protecting at all."

CREATION OF RAILWAY FREIGHT

"There was a time when the consumer was thought to be the influencing force of the market. But students of economic conditions have come to see that under modern production it is, now to a much greater extent than formerly, the producer, whose methods of salesmanship have been highly organized, that really determines the amount of product that the consuming world will take," says the Wall Street Journal.

"Of course this is true within limits, as is every other human proposition. But the fact remains that the pressure of production upon consumption is always tipping the scales in the direction of the consumer. The pressure of the man who makes things is seldom withdrawn from the man who consumes things. Salesmanship seizes early and late to find new sources and new means of extending the disposition of goods to consumers.

"Why may not the time come when the railroads as carriers of freight shall assume the position the producer now holds in determining the character of freight that should be rendered available for transportation? Not only the amount, but also the kind will have much to do with what railroads want, namely, a tonnage which has an increasing income-yielding power. For instance, the farmers of Delaware have found that from 100 acres of wheat the railroad receives 1,800 bushels and collects $54 in hauling the commodity from Dover to Philadelphia, while for every 100 acres of potatoes the railroad receives 15,000 bushels and collects $1,500. That is, for about eight times more freight in bulk it collects nearly thirty times as much revenue.

"Western railroads have added much to their revenue by substituting live stock for cereals. A propaganda in favor of breeding meat producing animals or draft animals not only furnished freight which could be counted upon to contribute something more or less regularly all the year round, but furnished a superior class of freight so far as income went. If the same principle were applied in the system made policy of railroads, to cultivate the production of a superior in the place of an inferior revenue producing freight, in an effort covering a series of years the whole complexion of a given line's freight traffic might be changed so much as to revolutionize its financial future. There is no doubt that the future of railroading has something to gain in this direction, and fortunate is the road whose officials see clearly enough the beginnings of industrial effort to erode and encourage them into mighty streams of lucrative traffic. Every traffic territory might be made to produce some kind of freight all the year round, and a variety of kinds is quite as important as quantity."

Every city of any prominence in the country has a spring-cleaning day. The property-owners clean their yards, trim their trees and then dump the refuse in the streets and a city cart goes round and collects the refuse and dumps it at the city dumping-ground. Such a method of procedure would be good for Janesville. Madison has it in use with much success.

The state legislature is seriously considering the question of passing a law which would permit cities to be run by commissions. This specific law will develop into a great good for many cities and Janesville might well look into the matter seriously from a matter of economy.

Every so often some explorer starts for the North pole whether by balloon, sledge or vessel. The next thing some one knows the Wrights will sail off in an airship and annex it for the United States as they have all aerial honors in Europe.

They have even tried to make poor Castro pay rent for the palace at Caracas which he used while he was President. This is going a little too far. Expelled from the country, driven to seek an asylum in a foreign land, the poor old cattle-thieving president of Venezuela is certainly having a hard time.

Once more they have found a member of the royal Hapsburg who left his title and home for America. This time the man found mysteriously disappears as mysteriously as he appeared after years of silence and doubt as to his existence.

She'll seek again her native air; they don't appreciate her there on Britain's dull and gloomy CARRIE tale, where it's a sin to NATIE leave a smile. The Briton with a cigarette is apt to fuss around and fret, when Carrie with her axe appears, and knocks his lid down over his ears; and he for mutiny is ripe when he observes his trusty pipe go flying from the train or boat, and sinful words rise in his throat. When Carrie smashes logs and japs, the men who run the public house decide to take it in a joke, and Carrie finds herself in a bit of a predicament, and paying out by her blooming pence. And so her homeward way she takes; her eggs are used for making cakes!

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

WHY?

The kidnapping of Willie Whittle, the Sharon (Pa.) boy, caused a sensation nation wide.

Especially were the people and the authorities of Pennsylvania and Ohio aroused. The former state offered a reward of $15,000 for the capture of the kidnapers. It sent out troops of mounted police, police and detective departments in many cities were active. The activity brought results.

The guilty parties were caught almost as soon as they got hold of the ransom money and will perhaps go to prison for life.

When Willie Whittle was able to talk he told how the kidnapers had instructed him, should any "bad men" come to find him, to hide under the sink.

Well—The city of Scranton, Pa., is not far from Sharon, Pa., the home of Willie Whittle's parents, and a correspondent brings these facts to our attention:

Recently the silk workers of Scranton held a meeting. Among the things recited by some of the speakers was this statement:

"Whenever a factory inspector comes to our mill the foreman puts the little boys and girls in the bobbin boxes and tells them to be quiet until he goes away."

Note the parallel. The Sharon kidnapers hide their boy under a sink.

The Scranton violators of the child labor law hide their boys and girls in the bobbin boxes.

Sinks or bobbin boxes—where is the difference?

Willie Whittle complained most of all because he could not have fresh air and sunshine and his playmates.

The boys and girls unlawfully imprisoned in the Scranton mills are employed in stuffy, insanitary rooms. And hands and feet and backs and brains are on a constant strain to tend the bobbins.

All contrary to law.

But Pennsylvania sends out no mounted police and offers no rewards for the arrest of these law violators.

The Whittle kidnapers took only one boy; the child labor criminals take thousands of boys and girls in Sharon and elsewhere and rob them not only of air and sunshine, but of their childhood.

Why?

Is the wholesale crime less abhorrent than the one against a single child?

A Census of Physicians.

Throughout the United States there is one licensed physician to every 700 persons; in New York state, one to 672, and in New York city, one to 653. The income of physicians varies fully as much as that of other professions. Noted city specialists often get in a single fee from a wealthy patient an amount equal to five years' income of some country doctors.

PAINTS & VARNISHES

We want every housewife to know that for every surface, outside and inside of her home, there is a special paint, varnish, stain or enamel; that the selection of the right treatment for each surface is vital to durability as well as pleasing effects; and that The Sherwin-Williams Co., whom we represent, have devoted forty years to the study of surface treatments and the making of paints and varnishes best suited to each.

Have a Paint Talk with Us

The woman who wants a home that is artistic and up-to-date in every way, should come in and have a paint talk with us. We will be glad to tell her of the possibilities of paint and varnish in beautifying and preserving every surface in and about the home, and how to treat each room so as to secure pleasing and harmonious results.

The progress of human sensibility
is amazing; we give soldiers better food and lighter accommodations, and less work to everyone. The regime in prisons is milder; charity is ever increasing, and our children have less
to do and longer holidays.

STATEMENT MADE
AS TO INQUIRYREPORT FROM MADISON AS TO
OPINION OF THE BOARD.CLARK IS EXONERATEDBoys Who Were Instrumental in Bringing About Investigation
Given Warning.

After an exhaustive investigation of the alleged misconduct and mismanagement of the state institution for the blind, which took the attention of the state board of control two days last week and part of two days of the present, the state board of control is evidently of the opinion that the complaints were groundless.

In fact, it is understood that they announced to the five boys who were prominent in bringing the complaints to their attention that they had two days in which to decide what their future policy should be and were to be given permission to consult with whom they pleased relative to what they decided to do.

It is probable that if they do not decide to drop the matter they will be suspended from the school. Three of them are in the graduating class
this year, the other two in the grade
below.

There has been some talk of the matter being brought to the attention of the state legislature should
the board fail to discover any faults
that were complained of, but whether this will be done or not remains to be seen.

The following is the statement of the case as given out in Madison last
evening:
The members of the state board of control returned from Janesville today, having practically completed their investigation into the charges against Supt. Harvey Clark of the Janesville State School for the Blind,
and his wife, the matron of the school, Mismanagement and unfitness
for the work were alleged, but from the conversation of the members of the board, it is evident that the formal report will sustain the Clarks.

"We examined over thirty children
and most of the teachers and attendants," said a member of the board tonight. "We examined all who could have had knowledge of the use of any drugs by Mrs. Clark, which was one of the things charged, and we found
she had used a coal tar product under a physician's prescription for heavy headaches upwards of a year ago and that was all the foundation for the story, which we believe was started in malice in the teachers' force
and which also fostered discontent
among the pupils."

"The Janesville school is a very difficult one to manage, for some of the pupils remain in the institution ten,
eleven and twelve years and too often develop into full-blown idiots if any regulations are introduced."

"Mr. Logan, the teacher of manual training, was discharged by Supt.
Clark, not because he brought these charges to the governor, but because he admitted having stirred up people in Janesville to make trouble for the management of the institution."

"We have not the transcript of the testimony as yet, and it will be a few days before our formal report is ready."

Supt. Clark was a member of the board of control before his appointment to the position at the head of the Janesville institution.

MISS BERTHA HOGAN
AND WM. G. WARRENWere Wedded by the Very Rev. E.
E. Reilly at St. Patrick's Church This Morning.

The wedding of Miss Bertha Hogan
of this city and William G. Warren of Milwaukee was celebrated by the Rev. Dean E. E. Reilly at St. Patrick's church at half-past seven o'clock this morning. The bride was attended by Miss Mamie Hanken, a cousin,
and Irving Hollenbecker of Milwaukee was best man. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to relatives and a few intimate friends at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hogan, on South Franklin street. After a short honeymoon trip the happy couple will go to housekeeping in the state minneapolis where the groom is engaged in business. Mrs. Warren is a graduate of the Janesville high school, class of 1922, and is a popular and accomplished young woman whose many friends will wish her only happiness in her new home.

PRETTY WEDDING AT SECOND WARD HOMEMiss Genevieve Bingham Married at Half Past Ten to William Kopke at Leyden.

This morning at half past ten, in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends, Miss Genevieve Bingham was united in marriage to William Kopke, of Leyden. The ceremony was performed at the home
of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Harvey Johnson, 112 North Fifth street, Rev. Paul of Hanover speaking the words which united the happy couple. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Minnie Johnson, August Katsner of Madison acting as best man. Following the wedding reception refreshments were served.
The happy pair leave this afternoon
for Leyden where they will make their home. The bride is well-known to many in this city and has a large circle of friends who extend to her their best wishes. The groom is one of Leyden's most highly-respected young men. Mr. and Mrs. Kopke were the recipients of many beautiful
and useful wedding gifts.

Attention A. O. H.
All members of the A. O. H. are requested to be at the C. & N. W.
depot at 5:30 this evening to meet
the remains of the late Rev. L. J.
Vaughan and to meet at the hall at 5:00 a. m. Thursday to attend the funeral.

LAND OF HEATHER
MUSIC AND LOREScottish Entertainment Given at Presbyterian Church Last Night
Pleased Large Audience.

Voices and stringed instruments interpreted the lore of Scotland in a very pleasing fashion at the Presbyterian church last evening. The entertainment was planned by Mrs. John G. Hoxford and the flavor of the "Land o' Cotton" was heightened by drapings of tartan and huge and great clusters of thistles which were used in the decorative effects. The program consisted largely of the familiar ballads which most people have known from childhood, but they were none the less rather more acceptable
on account of their tender associations.

No announcements were made. Most of the talent sat on the platform, and when their hour struck came forward, did their turns and retired to their places without embarrassment
or undue self-consciousness. A strong feature was the chorus which had been admirably trained and was generously used with great effectiveness.

Of especial merit were the solos—
notably "The Bonnie Muniecht" by Will Austin and "O, for Friday Night"
by Miss Margaret Wray, Arthur School sang "Comin' Thro' the Rye" with marked individuality and was given a hearty recall. Three recitations by the Misses Edith Severhill, Helen Tracy and Amy Williams added the spice of variety. The last three, "Cuddle Doon," was accompanied by a lullaby refrain at the end of each stanza which emphasized the central idea. The program concluded with a sleepy song which left the chorus apparently wrapped in slumber.

Mrs. Hoxford is to be congratulated on the entertainment and especially on the good taste shown in the construction of the program. No hint of bitter, murder nor sudden death was to be found. All breathed youth, health and joyousness. Every number was pleasing and the large audience was responsive and glad to be pleased.

The program was full was as follows:
Familiar Scotch Air—Miss Sever-
hill, Miss Wilma Severhill and Mr.
Brunson.
"Highland Laid"—Chorus.
"Within a Mile of Edinburgh Town"—
Miss Hazel Palmer and Chorus.
Reading—"The Millmaid's Song"—
Miss Edith Severhill.
"The Heather of Scotland"—Chorus.
Solo, "In the Bonnie Muniecht"—
Will Austin.

"Duncan Gray"—Chorus.
"The Elphie Stone"—W. B. Tallman
and Double Quartet.
Solo, "Comin' Thro' the Rye"—Arthur School.

"O, for Friday Night"—Margaret
Wray and Chorus.
Girls' Trio—"My Heart Is Sair." Reading, "Our May Had an o'e to a Man"—Helen Tracy.

"Hey the Dusty Miller"—Chorus.
"In O'er Young to Mary Yet"—
Miss Edna McCulloch and Chorus.
"The Waggin' of Our Dog's Tail"
Edwin Mead and Double Quartet.

Solo, "Loch Lomond"—Miss Ada
Lewis.
"Whistle O'er the Lave O'it"—Double Quartet.
"The Campbells Are Comin'"—Chorus.

Solo, "I'll Past Ten"—Robert Al-
ris.
"A Mac Sleik" on to His Name"—
Ronald Alris and Chorus.

"Hark, Hark, Cuckoo"—Chorus.
Reading, "Cuddle Doon"—Miss Amy
Williams.
American plantation song and "All Noddy"—The Chorus.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Helen Marden Known Here: Miss Helen Marden, the young woman who was killed on the Smith College campus a few days ago by Porter Smith of Chicago, was a niece of Mrs. I.
J. Estes, who resides on South Main street, and visited the latter's daughters, the Misses Allen, Helen, and Grace Estes, in this city, about a year and a half ago. The report that she had broken an engagement with Smith is said to be incorrect. He is believed to have been mentally deranged.

Local Sox Defeated: The Janesville Sox baseball team were defeated for the first time this season in a game played yesterday afternoon with the Janesville Cubs. The batteries for the blues were Stewart and Koch for the Sox, and Tippet and Scoville for the Cubs.

Rockford Visitors Here: The new Rockford & Interurban parlor car
"Idle Moments," brought a company of the Rockford Chapter, D. A. R., here on an excursion trip yesterday
afternoon.

A HOME BEAUTIFUL.
The H. S. Woodruff home is an ideal home for a business man, within walking distance of his business, and yet removed from the noise, dust and smoke of the downtown district. Retired and quietly situated as it is, it affords much of the beauty of nature.
From the house one gets a fine view of the country 15 miles south and east,
to Boit and Clinton, comprising
some of the richest farming country
in Southern Wisconsin. The house is modern, finely finished
throughout, oak mantels and stairway,
furnace heat, gasoline light, as well
as electric, sanitary sewerage system. Six acres of land go with the property, and a shaded right of way from car line. This beautiful place is to be sold at auction. The sale is to be held on the property Saturday, May 15 at 2:30 p. m. The owners realize that it will bring but a low price compared to its worth, but the sacrifice is necessary to settle up the estate. For further particulars address Geo.
Woodruff, administrator, Janesville.

HIGH SCHOOL VOTED ON STATE FLOWERBallot Cast Was Unusually Light on Account of Absence of Seniors
at Class Exercises.

This morning at the high school,
the vote of the high school students
for the state flower was taken, to be sent with the vote of the other schools to the state superintendent of instruction at Madison. The vote this morning was rather light as a number of the seniors were absent during the morning exercises. The vote throughout the city has been rather light, as a number of the children in the grades were kept away on Arbor Day to do work at home, but the total in the city was 2,047. Of those
the arbutus received 148; the violet, 1,256; the white water lily, 349; and the wild rose, 294. The balloting this morning by the high school students resulted as follows: Violet, 223; wild rose, 40; arbutus, 13; and water lily, 35. The total vote cast was 317. The results were this afternoon sent to Madison.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to express our heartfelt
thanks to the friends and neighbors

PHYSICIANS OF TWO COUNTIES AT FEAST

Green and La Fayette Medical Societies Held Banquet and Meeting in Monroe.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Monroe, Wis., May 12.—Members of the medical societies of Green and La Fayette counties held a joint meeting here yesterday. Various subjects pertaining to the practice of medicine were discussed at sessions held at the court house and a feature was a banquet at the Ludlow. Twenty-five members of the two societies were in attendance.
Miss Marie R. Elmer, of Monroe

township, and Mr. Herman Regez, of this city, were married here yesterday afternoon at the parsonage of St. John's church by Rev. Alfred Schuh. They hurried to an automobile that awaited them and departed on a wedding trip, catching a train at Juda. Mr. Regez is a son of Jacob Regez, 85, one of the leading wholesale cheese men of the city.

The case of Arnold Bruegger vs. Volney Morton, et al., to recover $247 as cheesemaker on contract that the defendants never complied with which was tried at the last term of court, has been decided by Judge Grimm on a special verdict returned by the jury in favor of the defendants.

S. S. Hyde, the well known orchestra leader of this city, got his leg caught in a trap with which he was loading a cow in the animal suddenly went on a rampage and he was dragged over plowed ground and around trees that came in his path. He was thrown against a tree with a force that broke the strap and saved him from more serious injury. He was badly bruised but feels that he had a lucky escape.

On Common Sense and Madness.
Common sense confutes the fact of experience with inevitable facts, and supposes in good faith that what is, is the measure of what may be. Madness, on the other hand, cannot perceive any distinction between what is and what it imagines—it confuses its dreams with reality.—Henri Frederic Amiel.

CUT DUTY ON WINDOW GLASS

SENATE HEEDS CRY FOR A DOWNWARD REVISION OF TARIFF.

TAFT EXERTS HIS INFLUENCE

Tells Congressmen He Thinks Promise of Reduction in Rates Must Be Kept by Republicans—Hale Stirs Tillman's Ire.

Washington, May 12.—The duties on window glass are to be cut by the senate finance committee under orders from Chairman Aldrich. This, it is pointed out by the insurgents and Democrats, is a victory for the people who have been crying for a revision downward.

This was especially important because just before the senate adjourned—after Senator Cummins had spent an hour attacking this window glass schedule—Senator Root of New York, most conservative among the conservatives, almost joined the insurgent ranks by declaring that on the showing that has so far been made by the committee the high rates of window glass have not been justified.

Downward Course to Continue. Far more important, however, than the fate of the window glass schedule is the report that the "revision downward" is not to stop here. The demand for a genuine cutting of the Dingley rates has been growing more widely insistent every day. With remarkably few exceptions, the important Republican papers of the country seem almost unanimous in their assertion that the Republican party promised to revise the tariff downward, and they insist that these pledges must be kept. It is this cry from the country that is proving far more effective than the daily deluge of oratory from the insurgent ranks. In fact some of this oratory seems to be doing more harm than good.

Senator Aldrich has had his ear to the ground and it is said that he has become convinced that the Republican party cannot afford to take the responsibility of reaffirming the Dingley rates much less of increasing them.

It is because of this that careful observers here expect to see repeated decreases in the reports of the committee from day to day, but most of them will be made in such a way as to prevent the insurgents from taking credit for them.

Taft's Attitude Has Weight.

President Taft's attitude is also having considerable weight in this portion of the work. He still insists that he will not dictate to congress—but each day a score of members of both houses wander up to the White House to talk things over with him. And they always get to the tariff.

Then, after warning them that he must not be construed as trying to coerce them, the president tells his visitors that he thinks the Republican party promised reduction, that this promise must be kept.

Real Fights Are Delayed.

The senate covered almost 20 pages of the bill yesterday, but it passed over for later debate most of the schedules which promised a real fight. The earthware paragraphs promised some genuine fighting, but they were finally affirmed by almost purely party votes. On the first attempt to reduce the rates, Senator La Follette was the only insurgent to stick to the Democratic ranks, while on the next vote he was joined by Senators Brewster and Crawford.

The most important amendments of the day were the increase of the duty on refined toilet soaps to 50 percent, and the decrease in the rate on refined sulphur from six to four dollars a ton. The zinc schedule as well as the promised fight on gas rotators and a considerable number of important chemicals went over for later discussions because the committee is still considering amendments on them.

Tillman and Hale Clash. Senator Tillman, addressing himself to Senator Hale, asked whether it be believed that the duty on tea would not increase the price, he would join him in voting for a ten-cent duty on tea.

"We have an infant tea industry down in South Carolina," said Senator Tillman, "and I want to know whether the senator from Maine will join me to protect it? I will insist because I want protection for that infant industry in South Carolina."

"If the senator will be a little less boisterous," interrupted Senator Hale, "I will try to answer him."

"Why should you ask me to be less boisterous?" retorted Senator Tillman, "when some other senators have been high-balling around here as if they were in a circus?"

Prepare to Guard President. Washington, May 12.—Preparations are being made by the secret service for the guarding of President Taft's summer home at Beverly Cove, Mass., while the president is there this summer. The usual custom of having the president's house guarded every hour of the day and night will be carried out this summer.

Brandenburg Waives Extradition. San Francisco, May 12.—Broughton Brandenburg, the newspaper man and magazine writer, charged with grand larceny in connection with the sale of an article purporting to have been written by Grover Cleveland, created a surprise by waiving extradition and agreeing to return east without further resistance.

UNVEIL SHAFIT TO CHIEF.

Status of Indian Given to City of Oskaloosa, Ia.

Oskaloosa, Ia., May 12.—In the presence of many thousands of persons from all parts of Iowa a heroic statue of Chief Mahaska was unveiled in the park here today. The exercises were conducted by the Improved Order of Redmen and included addresses by former Congressman John P. Lacey and Carl Kaufman of Denison and an original poem by Maj. S. H. M. Myers of Des Moines.

The statue is of bronze and is the work of Sherry Fry of Creston, Ia. It won several prizes while on exhibition in Paris. It is given to the people of Oskaloosa by J. O. Edmanson of Des Moines in honor of his father, who was one of the organizers of Mahaska county and its first sheriff.

TO BE ROOSTERLESS CITY.

Washington Decides to Oust the Male Chicken.

Washington, May 12.—Here is a genuine suffragette victory and right to the capital of the nation!

Roosters may no longer be kept in the District of Columbia. This is the principal burden of the new "chicken regulations," promulgated by the health department of the district. The rules specify under what conditions chickens may be kept, stipulating just what care must be given the chicken houses and yards. But the gist of this series of "chicken regulations" is the following:

"VI. No roosters may be kept on the premises."

A fine of from $2 to $10 a day is provided for all violations.

MICHIGAN SOLON STABBED.

Assassin Cuts Throat of W. H. Schantz of Hastings.

Lansing, Mich., May 12.—Representative William H. Schantz of Hastings was attacked on the street here last night by an assailant who cut the legislator's throat with a razor. At the hospital it was reported that the razor had missed the jugular vein and that Mr. Schantz would probably recover.

It is thought that the assault was due to the vagaries of a "dope fiend." James Duggan, who was already known to the police, was arrested.

DIES TO ESCAPE DISASTER.

Indianapolis Man Kills Himself in Hotel with Pistol.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 12.—Campbell H. Cobb of the firm of C. F. Sayles & Co., real estate dealers, committed suicide at the Denison hotel by shooting himself through the head, after stabbing himself over the heart with a small penknife. A note to his wife was found in his pocket. It reads: "Dear Gene: The disaster is worse than you think. Cannot possibly get out of trouble. Think this is best for you and the baby."

"Jim Crow" Rule Illegal.

New York, May 12.—The supreme court here decided that the proprietors of sight-seeing automobiles in this state may not draw the color line among their passengers and that any attempt to establish the "Jim Crow" idea in public conveyances of this character is illegal. The court granted damages of $100 to Estelle Green, a negro.

Taft at Mrs. Dalzell's Funeral.

Washington, May 12.—President Taft attended the funeral of Mrs. Mary Louise Dalzell, wife of Representative John Dalzell of Pittsburgh, Pa. The body was taken to Pittsburgh for burial in the family plot in Allegheny cemetery.

KANSAS W. R. C. CELEBRATES.

Silver Jubilee Is Observed at Convention in Ottawa.

Ottawa, Kan., May 12.—The Kansas department of the Woman's Relief Corps is celebrating today its twenty-fifth anniversary, and large numbers of its members are here for the silver jubilee. First on the program came a grand march, during which the contributions to the jubilee fund were deposited. Next a beautiful silk flag was presented to the Ottawa High school. This evening Mrs. Nettie McGowan of Chicago, national patriotic instructor, will deliver the "jubilee address."

At this convention the W. R. C. is making a special effort to promote its plan for the purchase of the John Brown battlefield at Osawatomie for a public park. The land will cost about $2,000, and the corps intends to buy it and dedicate it to the Grand Army of the Republic, and present it to the state.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Poor Reddy.
Hartley had climbed on the wharf and now he was heading for the village. I got the sleep fast, after a fashion, and then run over and caught up with him. He was walking with long steps and looking straight ahead. His left hat was in the side pocket of his jacket and his face was set and pale under the tan. I happened to bump into him as I came alongside, and he jumped and gave a little groan.
"What's the matter with that arm of yours?" I asked, anxious. He'd stopped for a second and was biting his lips together.
"Nothing," he says, short. "Bruised a little, I guess. Where's the hotel?"
"Up the main road a piece. That's it, on top of the hill."

"Come on then," says he, walking faster than ever.
We went through Wapatomac village like we were walking for money. Some of the town folks were just getting up, and you could see smoke coming from kitchen chimneys and window shades being folded. Once in a while, where the families were particularly early risers, I smelt fried herring. In the center, by the post-office, the feller that keeps the market was just taking down his store shutters. He looked at us kind of odd.

"Good morning," he says. "Going to fair or at last, ain't it?"
"Guess likely," says I, keeping on.
"You been on the water, ain't you?" he asks. "Out caught down to the Point?"

Long Point's a great place for Wapatomac folks to go on clamming and fishing trips. I suppose he thought we'd been out the day before, when it cleared that time, and had had to put in at the station over night. We must have looked like we'd been through the mill. Both of us were soaking wet, and I had on rubber boots and a sou'wester. I'd thrown off my flannel coat at the wharf.

I didn't stop to explain. I had to save my breath to keep up with Martin. The nigger he got to the hotel the faster he walked.

The Wapatomac house is about the tontest summer place on our part of the coast. A great big building, with piazzas and a band stand, and windows and wind-mills and bowling alleys till you can't rest. We turned in between the stone posts at the end of the driveway and went pounding across the lawns and flower beds.

There was a sleepy-looking clerk behind the desk in the big hall. Nobody else was in sight, and the whole outfit of empty chairs and scattered newspapers had that lonesome look of having been up all night. Oh, yes! and there was a colored man mopping the floor.

Hartley went up to the desk, leaving muddy foot marks right where the clerk had been scrubbing.
"Good morning," he says to the clerk. "Dr. Jordan of Providence is one of your guests, isn't he?"

The clerk put down the book he was reading and looked us over. He done it deliberate and chilly, same as hotel clerks always do. "If there's any one mortal that can make the average man feel like apologizing for living without a license, it's a slick, high-collared, fancy shirt-bosomed hotel clerk."

"What?" says the clerk, frosty and slow.
"Dr. Jordan of Providence. Is he here?"

His majesty looked at his book again afore he answered. Then he put his thumb between the pages to mark the place and condescended to draw out:
"What do you want with him?"

For once he'd made a mistake. There are times when it ain't wise to judge a feller by his general get-up. Martin stiffened, and he spoke clear and sharp.
"Answer my question, if you please, says he. "Is the doctor here?"

"No, he ain't."

"Where is he?"

"Gone."

I felt sick. Maybe Hartley did too, but he didn't show it.
"Where has he gone?" he asks.

"Have You Dyspepsia?"

When the stomach will not digest the food it craves you should recognize this as nature's warning—a fore-runner of dyspepsia. Otherwise you will soon find yourself fast in the unwelcome grip of this dreaded disease.

Pabst Extract
The Best Tonic

the essence of modern diet, prevents and relieves dyspepsia. Furnishing nutrition without demanding unnecessary work of the stomach, a desire is created for more solid foods and the capacity furnished for their digestion.

"I don't know that I've got to—"
"I know. And for your own good, my friend, I advise that you tell me. Where is Dr. Jordan?"

The emperor come down off his throne a little. I caltate he figured that 'twas good policy.
"He's gone to Brantboro," he says. "He went yesterday morning and he's to leave there for Boston this forenoon. Then he's going to Bar Harbor for the rest of his vacation. Anything else you'd like to know?"

This last part was loaded to the gunwale with sarcasm.
"Yes," says Hartley emphatic. "Where is the doctor staying in Brantboro?"

"Cold Spring house. Want to know what he pays for his room?"

Martin didn't answer. He walked to the door. I stopped for a fliff.

"See here, my smart aleck," says I to the clerk, "you'll have some more fun from this later on, when your boss hears of it. Do you know who 'tis you've been sassing? That young man is John D. Vanderbilt of New York."

There's some satisfaction in a first-class lie. It done me good to see that clerk shiver up.

Martin was calling to me. "Sol," he asks, like a flash, "how can I get to Brantboro?"

"You can't—in time to catch that morning train. Brantboro's ten mile off, and the train that gets here at 25 minutes of eight leaves there at 7:15. That was the one we was to have the doctor on. And it's past six now."

He spun around on his heel. "Is the telegraph line to Brantboro working?" he asked the clerk.

"No, sir, no, sir." My! but he was polite. "I'm sorry to say not, sir."

"Can I get a horse here?"

"The livery stable is right around the corner; but I don't think—"

We was at that livery stable in less than two shakes. The feller that took care of the horses and slept in the stable loft was up and sweeping out.

"Have you got a horse that will take me to Brantboro in half an hour?" asks the Twin.

The feller stared at him. "Be you crazy?" says he.

Martin didn't answer. "Whose machine is that?" he asks.

It was pointing to a big automobile in the stable. A great big red thing, with a shiny painted hull and nickel-plated running rigging.

"Mr. Shearer's. He's away for a week and we're keeping it for him."

"Can I hire it?"

The feller's mouth fell open like 'twas on hinges.

"Hire it? Hire Mr. Shearer's automobile?" says he. "Well, I'll be darned!"

"Where's your employer?" asks Hartley, quick.

"Hoy?"

"Your boss?" I sings out, dancing up and down. "For the land sakes wake up! Where is he?"

"In the house, I guess. Where do you—"

We met the livery stable owner just coming out of his kitchen with a pan of leavings for the pig. He'd just turned out. I know him; his name was Hen Baker. Martin went at him hot-foot, speaking in short sentences.

"I want to hire that auto in your stable," he says. "I must get to Brantboro before seven o'clock. I'll pay any price. But I must have it."

Then there was more arguing. Baker said no. Was he crazy? He couldn't let another man's auto to the Almighty himself. And Mr. Shearer's auto, of all things! Why, Shearer would kill him. And so forth and so on.

But Hartley kept cool. He must have the machine. He'd be responsible for damages. He explained about the doctor.

"I'll pay you—so and so," says he. Never mind the price he offered. It was so big that I wouldn't be believed if I told it. Baker didn't believe it either till Martin pulled out a roll of bills and showed him.

"I'll buy the thing if necessary," says he. "But I'll have it. Come, skipper."

"The shofar's up at Shearer's house," says Baker. "Ho—"

"Never mind the shofar. I can run it." Send your man with us, and I'll leave the machine in his care at Brantboro. Then the shofar came after it. I'll write to Mr. Shearer and explain. Come on.

"It's all right, Don," I says. "He'll do all he tells you, and more. You'll never make a chunk of money any easier."

Baker followed us to the barn, saying "No" all the time. He kept on saying it while the Twin was getting up steam, or some such trick, in the auto. He said it even after he'd got the money in his hand. The hired man climbed in behind, Hartley and me in front. We chuff-chuffed out of the stable door.

"For heaven's sake!" hollers Baker, "take care of the thing. I don't know what'll come to me for this job when Shearer hears of it."

We got down to the street. I looked at my watch. It was 25 minutes past six.

"Now, Sol," says Hartley, "you must help me if I need you. I can use only one hand, so you pull whatever lever I tell you to. Hold your hair on, we're going to go."

We went—oh, yes, we went. I'd never felt in a buzz cart afore and inside of five minutes I was figuring that I'd never live to ride in one again. Suffering! how we did fly!

Lucky 'twas early. We didn't meet a soul on the road. If we had they'd had lively times getting out of our way. Away ahead somewheres there'd be a house with a dog scooting out of the gate, his mouth open ready to bark. Next minute we'd go past that house like a sky-rocket, and the pup would be digging a breathing hole through the dust behind us. I didn't have to pull a lever, for we had a clear field. Good thing I didn't, because I was too scared to know my hands from my feet. The stable man was actually blue. Next time I see Baker he told me that the feller had nightmare for a fortnight afterwards, and they could hear him yelling "Whoo!" in his sleep as plain as could be. And they in the house with the windows shut.

Afore I had time to think straight, scarcely, or remember to say more than a line or two of "Now I lay me," we was zizzling through Brantboro. We whirled into the big yard of the Cold Spring house and hauled up by the steps. Hartley piled out and I followed him. We'd used up just 18 minutes.

"Here!" says he to the clerk, a twin brother of the one at Wapatomac; "take this to Dr. Jordan's room."

He scribbled something on a slip of paper and chucked it across the desk. The clerk yelled for a boy and the boy took the paper and lit out. Pretty quick he comes back.

"He wants you to come right up, mister," says he.

"Good!" says Martin, tossing him half a dollar. "Lead the way."

The youngster started for the stairs, grinning like a punkin lantern. I stopped into a chair and felt myself all over to make sure I hadn't shook no part of me loose on the trip. Likewise I watched the clock.

In ten minutes more the Twin comes downstairs, and Dr. Jordan was with him. The doctor was a big gray-haired man with a pleasant face. He looked as though he'd dressed in a hurry, and he had a travelling satchel in his hand.

"I'll send you a check for my bill later," he says to the clerk. "All ready, Mr. Hartley."

We went out to the automobile. Martin started her up and we whizzed for the depot.

"Great Scott!" says the doctor. "I feel as if I had been pulled out of bed by the hair. Nobody but your father's son could do this to me, Hartley. Have you fellows got yet?"

The Twin was too busy with the steering wheel to answer. I done it for him.

"No, sir," says I; "not since yesterday noon. Nor slept since night afore last."

Martin run the automobile into one of the horse sheds by the depot. Then he passed the stable man the bill that happened to be on the outside of his roll. "Twas a tanner, for I caught a glimpse of it."

"Here," he says; "take this and wait here till the shofar comes for the machine. Well, skipper, we're on time, after all."

So we was, and ahead of it. We waited on the depot platform. I noticed that Hartley wasn't saying much. Now that the excitement was over, he seemed to me to be mighty quiet. Once, when he walked, I thought he staggered. And he was awful white.

"Sol," he says to me, just as the train hove in sight; "you needn't come with us, unless you want to. Maybe you'd like to stay and attend to your boat."

I looked at him. "No," says I. "I'm going to see it through. The boat can wait."

I had to give him a boost up the car steps. As he got to a seat, he staggered again.

"Skipper," he says, quiet and with littlestops between words, "I'm—afraid—you'll—have—to—look—out—for—the doctor. I'm believe I'm going—to—make a fool of myself."

And then he flops over on the cushions in a dead faint.

Doctor Jordan was at him in a second.

"It's his arm, I guess," says I. "He bruised it aboard the sleep."

The doctor pulled up Hartley's coat sleeve and felt of the arm.

"Bruised it!" he says. "I should say he did. The arm is broken."

Madstones.

The madstone is a stone popularly supposed to cure hydrophobia. Such stones, usually of the size and shape of an egg, are superstitiously preserved in parts of the United States, because they are believed to absorb venom. The madstone is a light, porous stone of greenish color. They are quite rare, being only occasionally found in the south.

Supernatural of Dickens.

Charles Dickens refused to lie down unless his bed was placed due north and south. He gave notice to the rule before arriving at a friend's house or a hotel, but a compass was always handy in his baggage to make sure.

A Quandary.

"A necklace of diamonds has been stolen from me!" said Mrs. Cumrox. "Aunt, you going to notify the police?" "I don't know what to do, it does seem rather classy to be robbed of jewelry; and yet I hate to have people think I'd ever miss a little thing like a necklace."

20 DROWNED AS LAUNCH SINKS IN THE OHIO RIVER

Of the Thirty Occupants Only Ten Manage to Escape Death in Mid-Stream.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 12.—Efforts are being made today by scores of men to find the bodies of 20 employees of a steel plant, who were missing after a launch in which they, with ten others, were crossing the Ohio river last night, sank in midstream at Schoenerville.

The missing are: Albert Graham, pilot, and part owner of the boat; George Thompson, formerly of Altoona, Pa.; "Hoots" O'Neill, James Connor, Walter Low, Thomas Kennedy, William Guthrie, Henry Vogel, Donald Murphy, Tony Dole, John Ruckey, Louis Goldstein, William Davis, Joseph Lyle, William Burke, two brothers, named Botta, and three others, whose names have not been learned.

All the men were employees of the Pressed Steel Car Company at the McKees Rocks plant. The men had been working overtime until eight o'clock and left the works to cross the river in the launch about fifteen minutes later.

The region is sparsely settled in the vicinity where the accident occurred and it was some time before news of the accident spread. One of the men who succeeded in swimming ashore ran to a telephone and gave the alarm.

Boats were at once put out in the hope of rescuing some, struggling swimmer, but the task seemed hopeless, as so much time had elapsed before help was secured. Two of the men saved were brothers of Henry Vogel, who was drowned.
